It's amazing to think that it was October 3rd when this group of 80 students first assembled. Within the first few weeks, students were assigned the task of learning new songs - (many in two-parts), as well as dialogue, for a very complex musical. The musical numbers alone total more than twenty-five minutes in length. But even more inspiring is to realize that all of this was done with only one, one-hour rehearsal, once a week - and with two casts. Truly amazing! Working together, Sound Arts students have been able to achieve so much. Each participant should feel very proud of his/her accomplishments and growth.

Saying "thank you" to the parents of Sound Arts does not even begin to express my gratitude for all you have done to help create the perfect environment for our young performers. It is rare to find such a fabulous and willing group of parents. In addition, the PTA and Administration at Grand View have been nothing but supportive! Thank you!

Thanks to all of the parents, families, and friends, who continue to reinforce and encourage students to experience first hand, the wonders of music and performing! Music education is an essential and key element in any child's education. The investment of time, effort, and energy, will provide life-long dividends to these young people!

May you all have a wonderful holiday season!
